ROHTAS BHANKHAR & OTHERS

· APPELLANT(s)

Versus

UNION OF INDIA AND ANOTHER

RESPONDENT(s)

JUDGMENT

R.M.LODHA, CJI.

23.12.1970 (1970 O.M.), Personnel Department of issued Office Memorandum being O.M. No. 8/12/69-Estt.(SCT) relaxing standards in the case of Scheduled Castes/Tribes candidates departmental in competitive examinations and in departmental confirmation examinations. The said O.M. remained operative for about 17 years until O.M. No. 36012/23/96-Estt. (Res) dated 22.7.1997 was issued whereby the instructions contained in 1970 O.M. were withdrawn. Thereafter by Notification dated 30.11.1998, the Central Service Section Officers' Secretariat Grade/Stenographers Grade 'B (Limited Competitive Departmental Examination) Regulations, 1964 (for short Regulations") were amended by Central Secretariat Service Section Officers' Grade/Stenographers' Grade 'B (Limited Departmental Competitive Examination) Amendment Regulations, 1998 (for short Regulations"). The result of this amendment in 1964 Regulations, Regulation 7, was that sub-regulation (3) was omitted on and from 22.7.1997. The explanatory note appended to the above Notification reads as follows:

> In compliance with the Supreme Court's judgment in the case of S. Vinod Kumar vs. Union of India (JT 1996(8) SC 643), the Central Government decided to omit the provisions of regulation 7(3) of the Central Secretariat Officers' Service Section Grade/Stenographers' Grade (Limited Departmental Competitive Examination) Regulations, 1964 which provides for relaxed qualifying standard in favour of the Scheduled Tribes Scheduled and the Castes candidates to make up the deficiency in the reserved quota which has been rendered legally invalid unenforceable. This is certified that no one is being adversely affected by giving this amendment retrospective effect.

- 2. In S. Vinod Kumar<sup>1</sup>, this Court relying upon Indra Sawhney<sup>2</sup> held that provision for lower qualifying marks/standard of evaluation was not permissible under Article 16(4) of the Constitution of India in view of Article 335.
- 3. Though Article 16(4A) had been brought into Constitution by the Constitution (Seventy-seventh Amendment) Act, 1995 with effect from 17.6.1995, S. Vinod Kumar¹ did not take into consideration this constitutional provision. In our view, S. Vinod Kumar¹ is per incuriam.
- 4. Moreover by the Constitution (Eighty-second Amendment) Act, 2000, a proviso has been appended to Article 335 of the Constitution with effect from 8.9.2000. The proviso reads as follow:

Provided that nothing in this article making prevent in provision in favour of the members of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes for relaxation in qualifying marks in any examination or lowering the standards of evaluation, reservation in mattes of promotion to any class or classes of services or posts in connect with the affairs of the Union or of a State.

8.10.1999, when 5. On special leave petitions, from which these appeals arise, came up for consideration before a two-Judge Bench, the Bench first formulated the point for consideration in the matter, viz., whether it permissible for the authorities to fix was lesser number of qualifying marks for reserved candidates in the matter of 'promotion'. The Bench noticed three judgments of this Court; (1) Indra Sawhney<sup>2</sup>, (2) S. Vinod Kumar<sup>1</sup> and (3) Kuldeep Singh3 and observed that in Kuldeep Singh<sup>3</sup> the Court did not notice the observations of majority as well as observations of Sawant, J. in Indra Sawhney<sup>2</sup>, and the matter needed to be heard by a three-Judge Bench.

On 2.12.1999, the matter came up before 6. a three-Judge Bench. The Bench on that day reiterated what was earlier stated by the two-Judge Bench in the order dated 08.10.1999 that in Kuldeep Singh3, the Bench had not referred to the majority decision in Indra Sawheny<sup>2</sup>. The Bench doubted the correctness of the decision in Kuldeep Singh3 and referred the matter to the Constitution Bench. In the reference order, the three-Judge Bench also noted the decision of this Court in Haridas Parsedia etc. vs. Urmila Shakya and others (Civil Appeal Nos. 6590-6592 of 1999 etc.) dated 19.11.1999 wherein it was observed that in the case of departmental promotion examination, which is held exclusively for SCs/STs, there could be marks. As regards Haridas Parsedia (supra), the Bench observed that in that case, the observations of this Court in Indra Sawhney<sup>2</sup> wherein it was laid down that there cannot be dilution of standards in matter of promotion was not noticed.

- 7. It is important to note here that constitutional validity of Article 16(4A) came up for consideration before the Constitution Bench in the case of M. Nagaraj<sup>4</sup>. In paras 97 to 99 (page 267) of the report, the Constitution Bench observed:
  - 97. As stated above, clause (4-A) of Article 16 is carved out of clause (4) of Article 16. Clause (4-A) provides benefit of reservation in promotion only to SCs and STs. In S. Vinod Kumar v. Union of India this Court held that relaxation qualifying marks and standards of evaluation in matters of reservation promotion was not permissible under Article 16(4) in view of Article 335 of the Constitution. This was also the view in Indra Sawhney.
  - 98. By the Constitution (Eighty-second

<sup>4. (2006)8</sup> SCC 212 M. NAGARAJ AND OTHERS VS. UNION OF INDIA AND OTHERS

Amendment) Act, 2000 a proviso was inserted at the end of Article 335 of the Constitution which reads as under:

"Provided that nothing in this article shall prevent in making of any provision in favour of the members of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes relaxation in qualifying marks in any examination or lowering the standards of evaluation, for reservation in matters promotion to any class or classes of services or posts in connection with the affairs of the Union or of a State."

- 99. This proviso was added following the benefit of reservation in promotion conferred upon SCs and STs alone. proviso was inserted keeping in mind the judgment of this Court in Vinod Kumar which took the view that relaxation matters of reservation in promotion was not permissible under Article 16(4) view of the command contained in Article Once a separate category is carved out of clause (4) of Article 16 then that category is being given relaxation matters of reservation in promotion. proviso is confined to SCs and STs alone. The said proviso is compatible with the scheme of Article 16(4-A).
- 8. The conclusions recorded by the Constitution Bench in  $M. Nagaraj^4$  are also relevant and they read as under:

121. The impugned constitutional amendments by which Articles 16(4-A) 16(4-B) have been inserted flow from They do not alter the Article 16(4). structure of Article 16(4). They retain the controlling factors or the compelling reasons, namely, backwardness inadequacy of representation which enables the States to provide reservation keeping in mind the overall efficiency of the State administration Article 335. These impugned amendments are confined only to SCs and They do not obliterate any of the constitutional requirements, namely, (quantitative ceiling limit of 50% limitation), the concept of creamy layer (qualitative exclusion), the classification between OBCs on one hand and SCs and STs on the other hand as held in Indra Sawhney, the concept of postbased roster with inbuilt concept of replacement as held in R.K. Sabharwal.

122. We reiterate that the ceiling limit of 50%, the concept of creamy layer and the compelling reasons, namely, backwardness, inadequacy of representation and overall administrative efficiency are all constitutional requirements without which the structure of equality of opportunity in Article 16 would collapse.

However, in this case, as stated above, the main issue concerns "extent of reservation". In this regard the State concerned will have to show in each case the existence of the compelling reasons, namely, backwardness inadequacy of representation and overall administrative efficiency before making provision for reservation. As stated above, the impugned provision is enabling provision. The State is not bound to make reservation for SCs/STs in matters of promotions. However, if they wish to exercise their discretion and make such provision, the State has to quantifiable data collect showing backwardness of the class and inadequacy of representation of that class addition public employment in to compliance with Article 335. It is made that even if the State has compelling reasons, as stated above, the State will have to see that its reservation provision does not lead to excursiveness so as to breach the ceiling limit of 50% or obliterate the creamy layer or extend the reservation indefinitely.

- 124. Subject to the above, we uphold the constitutional validity of the Constitution (Seventy-Seventh (Amendment) Act;1995: the Constitution (Eighty-first Amendment) Act, 2000; the Constitution (Eighty-second Amendment) Act, 2000 and the Constitution (Eighty-fifth Amendment) Act, 2001.
- 9. We do not think, it is necessary for us to deal with the width and scope of Article 16(4A) any further. Insofar as Kuldeep Singh<sup>2</sup> is concerned, we find that the matter was decided by this Court having regard to the constitutional provision contained in Article

- 16(4A). The view taken by this Court in Kuldeep Singh<sup>3</sup> is in accord with constitutional scheme articulated in Article 16(4A). On the other hand, in S. Vinod Kumar<sup>1</sup>, the Court failed to consider Article 16(4A). As a matter of fact, Article 16(4A) was inserted in the Constitution to undo the observations in Indra Sawhney<sup>2</sup> that there can not be dilution of standards in matters of promotion.
- 10. We are in respectful agreement with the decision in Kuldeep Singh<sup>3</sup> and approve the same. Ordinarily, we would have sent the matter to the Regular Bench for disposal of the matter but having regard to the nature of controversy and the fact that the Central Administrative Tribunal, Delhi (for short "the Tribunal") has followed S. Vinod Kumar<sup>1</sup> which is not a good law and resultantly 1997 O.M. is also illegal, in our view, the agony of the appellants need not be prolonged as they are entitled to the reliefs.

11. Consequently, civil appeals are allowed. The impugned order is set-aside. 1997

O.M. is declared illegal. The respondents are directed to modify the results in the Section Officers/Stenographers (Grade B/Grade-I)

Limited Departmental Competitive Examination, 1996 by providing for reservation and extend all consequential reliefs to the appellants, if not granted so far. No costs.
